

DiscoverIT has been in use before 1995

Now you can provide up-to-date, comprehensive, computer software training for your employees without sending them away from the office. We offer training for all levels of proficiency -- from the beginner to the more sophisticated user.

Our techniques demystify the wonders of computing for the first time user. With hands-on exercises and everyday examples, we allow the first time user to approach the PC without apprehension.

For the intermediate and advanced student, we leverage their knowledge by presenting advanced techniques in terms of how they will be used in the daily work environment. This fosters faster learning and a higher rate of retention.

Our goal is to shorten the path and time to computer proficiency for all students.

Prior to 1995, our flagship logo has been DiscoverIT. Customers called us Discover "IT". The IT signified that our customers got it. We helped them understand how to improve their business. That is because our products & services extended beyond technology. We also covered financial, operations & management topics.

Additional specimens of use were submitted to U.S. Patent & Trademark Office prior to 2002.
